Community Partners of Tarrant County

For some children in our community, home is not a safe place. In 2010, there were 227 child deaths from abuse and neglect in Texas; 18 of which occurred in Tarrant County. During the same time, Child Protective Services (CPS) received over 18,000 reports of child abuse and neglect in Tarrant County and worked with over 5,000 children each month. Most often, these children come into the CPS system hungry and with nothing but what little they have on. Sometimes they are in dirty and torn clothes, often only a diaper. They come from homes where despair and hopelessness and sometimes violence have replaced love and nurturing. These children and families need concrete help in this time of crisis. Created in 1981 by the Tarrant County Child Protective Services Board, Community Partners of Tarrant County is the official, on-site, charitable organization helping abused children with concrete needs in Tarrant County. Unfortunately, there are children in our community that are the victims of abuse and neglect each day. CPS cannot protect children alone, so Community Partners has joined with them on the front line of the fight against child abuse and needs the support of the community. Our local police departments have also joined the fight against child abuse by hosting this event to raise funds for these children. Your participation in the Communities Against Crime Run will make a difference in the lives of abused children in the Tarrant County community and show your support for local police departments. Please bring your family and join us to fight child abuse and help these precious children.
